Why Workplace Flu Vaccinations Are Essential

Don't Let the Flu Take Over Your Office

A small investment in flu vaccinations can save your business thousands in lost productivity.

UK businesses lose £338 per employee annually due to flu-related absenteeism.<sup>1</sup>

For just £16 per flu jab*, you can protect your workforce and minimise losses.

Seasonal flu costs the UK economy £644 million annually.

What Is the Flu

Influenza: More Than Just a Cold

Influenza is a highly contagious virus causing symptoms like fever, cough, muscle aches, and extreme tiredness.<sup>2</sup> It can lead to serious complications, especially in workplace settings.

Employees working in shared spaces, such as open-plan offices, meeting rooms or warehouses, are more likely to spread the virus through coughing, sneezing, or touching shared surfaces.

The Workplace Impact of Influenza

The Hidden Cost of Flu in Your Workforce

A typical case of flu confines an employee to THREE to FOUR days in bed and reduced productivity for up to a week afterwards.

Employees with flu miss an average of 5.3 workdays
and have reduced productivity for an additional 4.4 days.<sup>3</sup>

Increasing workplace vaccination rates by just 10% could boost UK annual economic output by £258 million.

Simple Ways to Stay Protected

Get a flu vaccination
- the most effective preventative measure.

Wash hands with soap and warm water frequently.

Keep workspaces clean and disinfect shared surfaces.

The Flu Vaccine

A new flu vaccine is developed each year against the most prevalent strains of the influenza virus.

It is important to get vaccinated each year.

The vaccine will help prevent people from getting the flu, reduce the severity of symptoms if they were to catch the flu and also prevent transmission of the influenza virus around the workplace.
